Anyone who is a "no show" at the training will be charged for his/her registration fee. It is the policy of the Pennsylvania District Attorneys Institute that no training registration fees will be refunded to individuals who cancel their registration after the advertised cancellation date. The intent of this policy is to preclude the Institute from being financially liable for costs due to the training facility for attendees who cancel at the last minute or do not show up at all. Final numbers are guaranteed with the training site 7 days prior to the training to ensure the appropriate amount of food and beverage is supplied for the training group. Accordingly, the Institute is then charged for the guaranteed number of attendees regardless if fewer attend. As always, substitutions will be accepted for registrants who have to cancel after the advertised cancellation date.
